InfoTrust Teams with Adobe for Intelligent Document Platform

Superior, CO, USA. – January, 2006 – InfoTrust teams with Documentum and Adobe to deliver integrated solutions utilizing both Documentum Enterprise CMS and Adobe electronic forms (eForms). InfoTrust will be offering comprehensive, easy to use eForms solutions for aerospace and heavily regulated industries. The Adobe Intelligent documents streamline business critical communications by combining the best characteristics of paper, such as familiarity and ease of use, with powerful business logic in the areas of security, calculations, routing, error checking, and data validation. Forms are quickly developed to using Adobe Designer to utilize web services and database connections. The Documentum content repository enables a rich set of content management services for controlling both content and processes throughout business cycle. Adobe eForms combines the ease of PDF with the rich data format of XML; users throughout the enterprise can leverage their Acrobat Reader (universal client) to participate in business processes, review and approval workflows, electronic commenting and apply digital signatures.

Today's customers are looking for solutions that use off-the-shelf products rather than proprietary technology. With industry leading expertise in products like Documentum and Adobe; technologies such as XML, eForms, web services, Java, object and relational storage, and applications that span industries; InfoTrust creates solutions that provide a foundation for growth your company can use well into the future. InfoTrust has a history of demonstrated deployment excellence, formally trained Documentum and Adobe resources, commitment to success, and a passion for quality and customer support.
